

Federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA)

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 and its implementing regulations, each as amended (collectively, "FERPA"), set forth requirements designed to protect the privacy of student education records. The law governs access to records maintained by educational institutions and the release of information from those records. Syracuse University fully complies with FERPA and with guidelines recommended by the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers.

Consent to Release Education Records

I, _____, a School of Architecture student, acknowledge that I understand my right to the privacy of my educational records maintained by Syracuse University. I hereby authorize the release of any academic information pertinent to my educational/psychological needs to my parents and/or legal guardian, to assist them in providing me with proper counseling and advisement concerning academic progress.

This release shall remain in effect for the entire time that I am a student at Syracuse University, unless I revoke the release in writing.
