

ASHLEY MCGRAW

Senior Architect

Ashley McGraw Architects is an award winning firm specializing in educational projects, in both K-12 and higher education, located in Syracuse, New York.

We seek a Senior Architect to lead project teams for large, complex projects. The successful candidate should be interested in exploring the full potential of architectural strategies to create a sustainable future. S/he will handle client contact and public presentations, organize and lead teams of project staff, including evaluating team members' performance, and mentoring less experienced designers.

Attributes will include excellent building science, interpersonal, organizational, technical, and communication skills. Professional Architectural degree, 5-10+ years in K12 design, LEED certified project experience, and good Revit skills required. This individual should have a sincere passion and talent for architectural design, and the role it will play in reducing humans' impact on the Earth, and the ability to identify and integrate sustainable design precepts into project design.

Ashley McGraw Architects offers challenging, interesting design projects, a very pleasant and congenial work environment, state of the art new office space, generous compensation packages, and long term career growth potential.

Interested candidates may submit their cover letter, resume, and sample images (5MB max file size) to:
